Dedication

Pharmacy's section of this annual is appreciatively dedicated to DR. FRANKLIN S. WILLIAMS, who, since he joined the faculty in 1954, has served as an inspiration for practical accomplishment to both students and practicing pharmacists alike.

Through his inspired research in the field of pharmacy management he is providing order in an area which has been neglected by the profession.

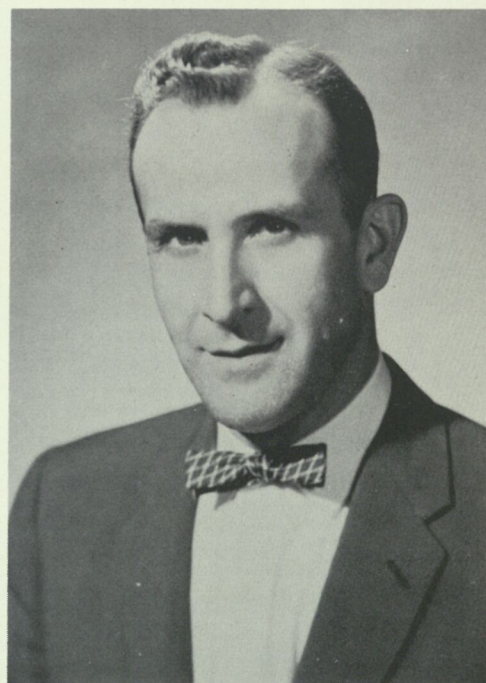

The continued work of Dr. Williams and other men of his high caliber is necessary for continuation of the unparalleled progress that the business-profession of pharmacy has made in recent years.

Seniors

This senior class, as perhaps all other classes, has displayed a certain uniqueness for which it probably will be remembered long after its more sophisticated qualities have been forgotten, assuming that they were ever seriously noticed.

Among those more unusual achievements could be listed the consumption of record-breaking volumes of coffee, which would not be so unusual except that much of it was consumed during class time. And too, the astounding weight gain per capita during their three years of arduous study at Little Rock would relegate any other class of fatsos to a malnutrition ward. And the crowning accomplishment of this class's scholastic career is documented by the birth rate statistics. It is doubtful that any other class has puffed on as many "it's a boy" and "it's a girl" cigars as has this one.

Juniors

Besides maintaining an above average scholastic standing this class takes an active part in extracurricular activities, one of the more important being the horse races in 'Hot Springs. There is already optimism that last year's winnings will be topped this season.

Sophomores

This class quickly gained the enviable reputation for conscientiousness and scholastic achievement. The eagerness and dedication with which each member has attacked the rigorous demands of professional study clearly displays them as the type of men and women pharmacy should continue to seek to fill the many positions offered by the profession.

"Got that #2 cat weighed yet, John?"

PHARMACY MATES sponsored Christmas party proved a howling success. Though the snapshots weren't of first order quality (you can excuse the photog on a night like this), we couldn't resist including them here for posterity.

The faculty showed early . . .

And stayed late.

A quiet game of cards was among the early features of the evening.

The tempo stepped up after several trips to the coat check room . . .

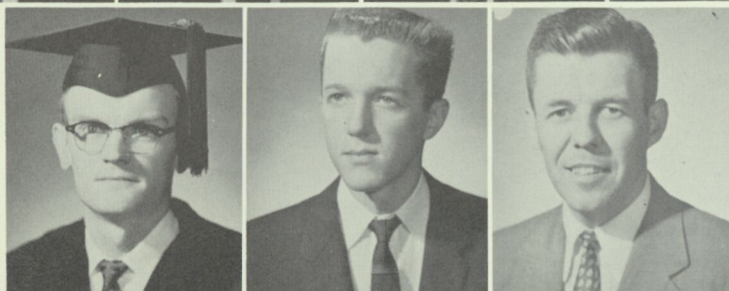

We got snowed in, but nobody cared.

Dedication

JULIA M. MILLER, M.A.

To be a dean is quite a chore
But to be a good one is even more.

You came to us in our baby years
With the will to see us through our doubts and fears.

To you we have turned when the going got rough.
You gave us the pep talks and showed us how to do our stuff.

You worked very hard to bring us accreditation
To this we say, a great big congratulation.

Our contact with you was limited it's true
But we knew you were there when we needed you.

When we heard you were leaving, we made quite a fuss
We would all make straight "A's" if it would keep you here with us.

You may leave us, but you won't really depart
A part of you will stay in each and every heart.

We offer this dedication as a token of our esteem
To you, Julia Miller, our first and best dean.
